For over three decades Anna Finlayson's art practice has incorporated drawing, painting, wall and floor based sculptural forms and assemblages together with site-specific installation.

Finlayson's recent studio explorations have resulted in several new bodies of drawings as well as returning to her roots as a painter in the production of small-scale acrylic paintings on wooden panels. These new, small-scale works incorporate ongoing interests in the exploration of colour, pattern, illusionistic space and repetition. Finlayson's tangential investigations borrow from and juxtapose concepts and imagery derived from an ongoing conversation with the broad history of Abstraction; ranging from post minimalism, process art and mid 20th century geometric abstraction to contemporary discourses.

Anna Finlayson has completed Degrees in Textile Design, RMIT, Fine Art-Painting, VCA/MCM, Public Art, RMIT and has recently submitted her PhD at the VCA/MCM, University of Melbourne. Finlayson was a studio artist at Gertrude Contemporary (2004-5) prior to living overseas for several years. Finlayson has exhibited extensively over the last 30 years including six solo exhibitions with Sarah Scout Presents, Melbourne. In 2017 a suite of five drawings were acquired by the National Gallery of Victoria, Prints and Drawings Collection. Finlayson's work is also held in public and private collections in Australia and internationally.
